JENGGALA™

HISTORY

Established in 1976, in Bali, Jenggala is the foremost producer of quality handcrafted ceramic ware in Indonesia. Three creative minds of different background have endured while being enriched by individuals equally passionate about the quality and creativity of hand-crafted and well thought-out designs. They were the late Brent Hesselyn who was an artist from New Zealand and specialized in pottery and ceramic design, the late Wija Waworuntu, a local hotel magnate, brought a business-oriented aspect and Ade Wawo runtu, Wija's daughter, contributed a contemporary point-of-view and mind set along with a strong social aspect. We design, manufacture and retail stoneware and porcelain ceramics and table top accessories. We are inspired by the quality of the hands-on craftsmanship and the Balinese culture in the development of our design.

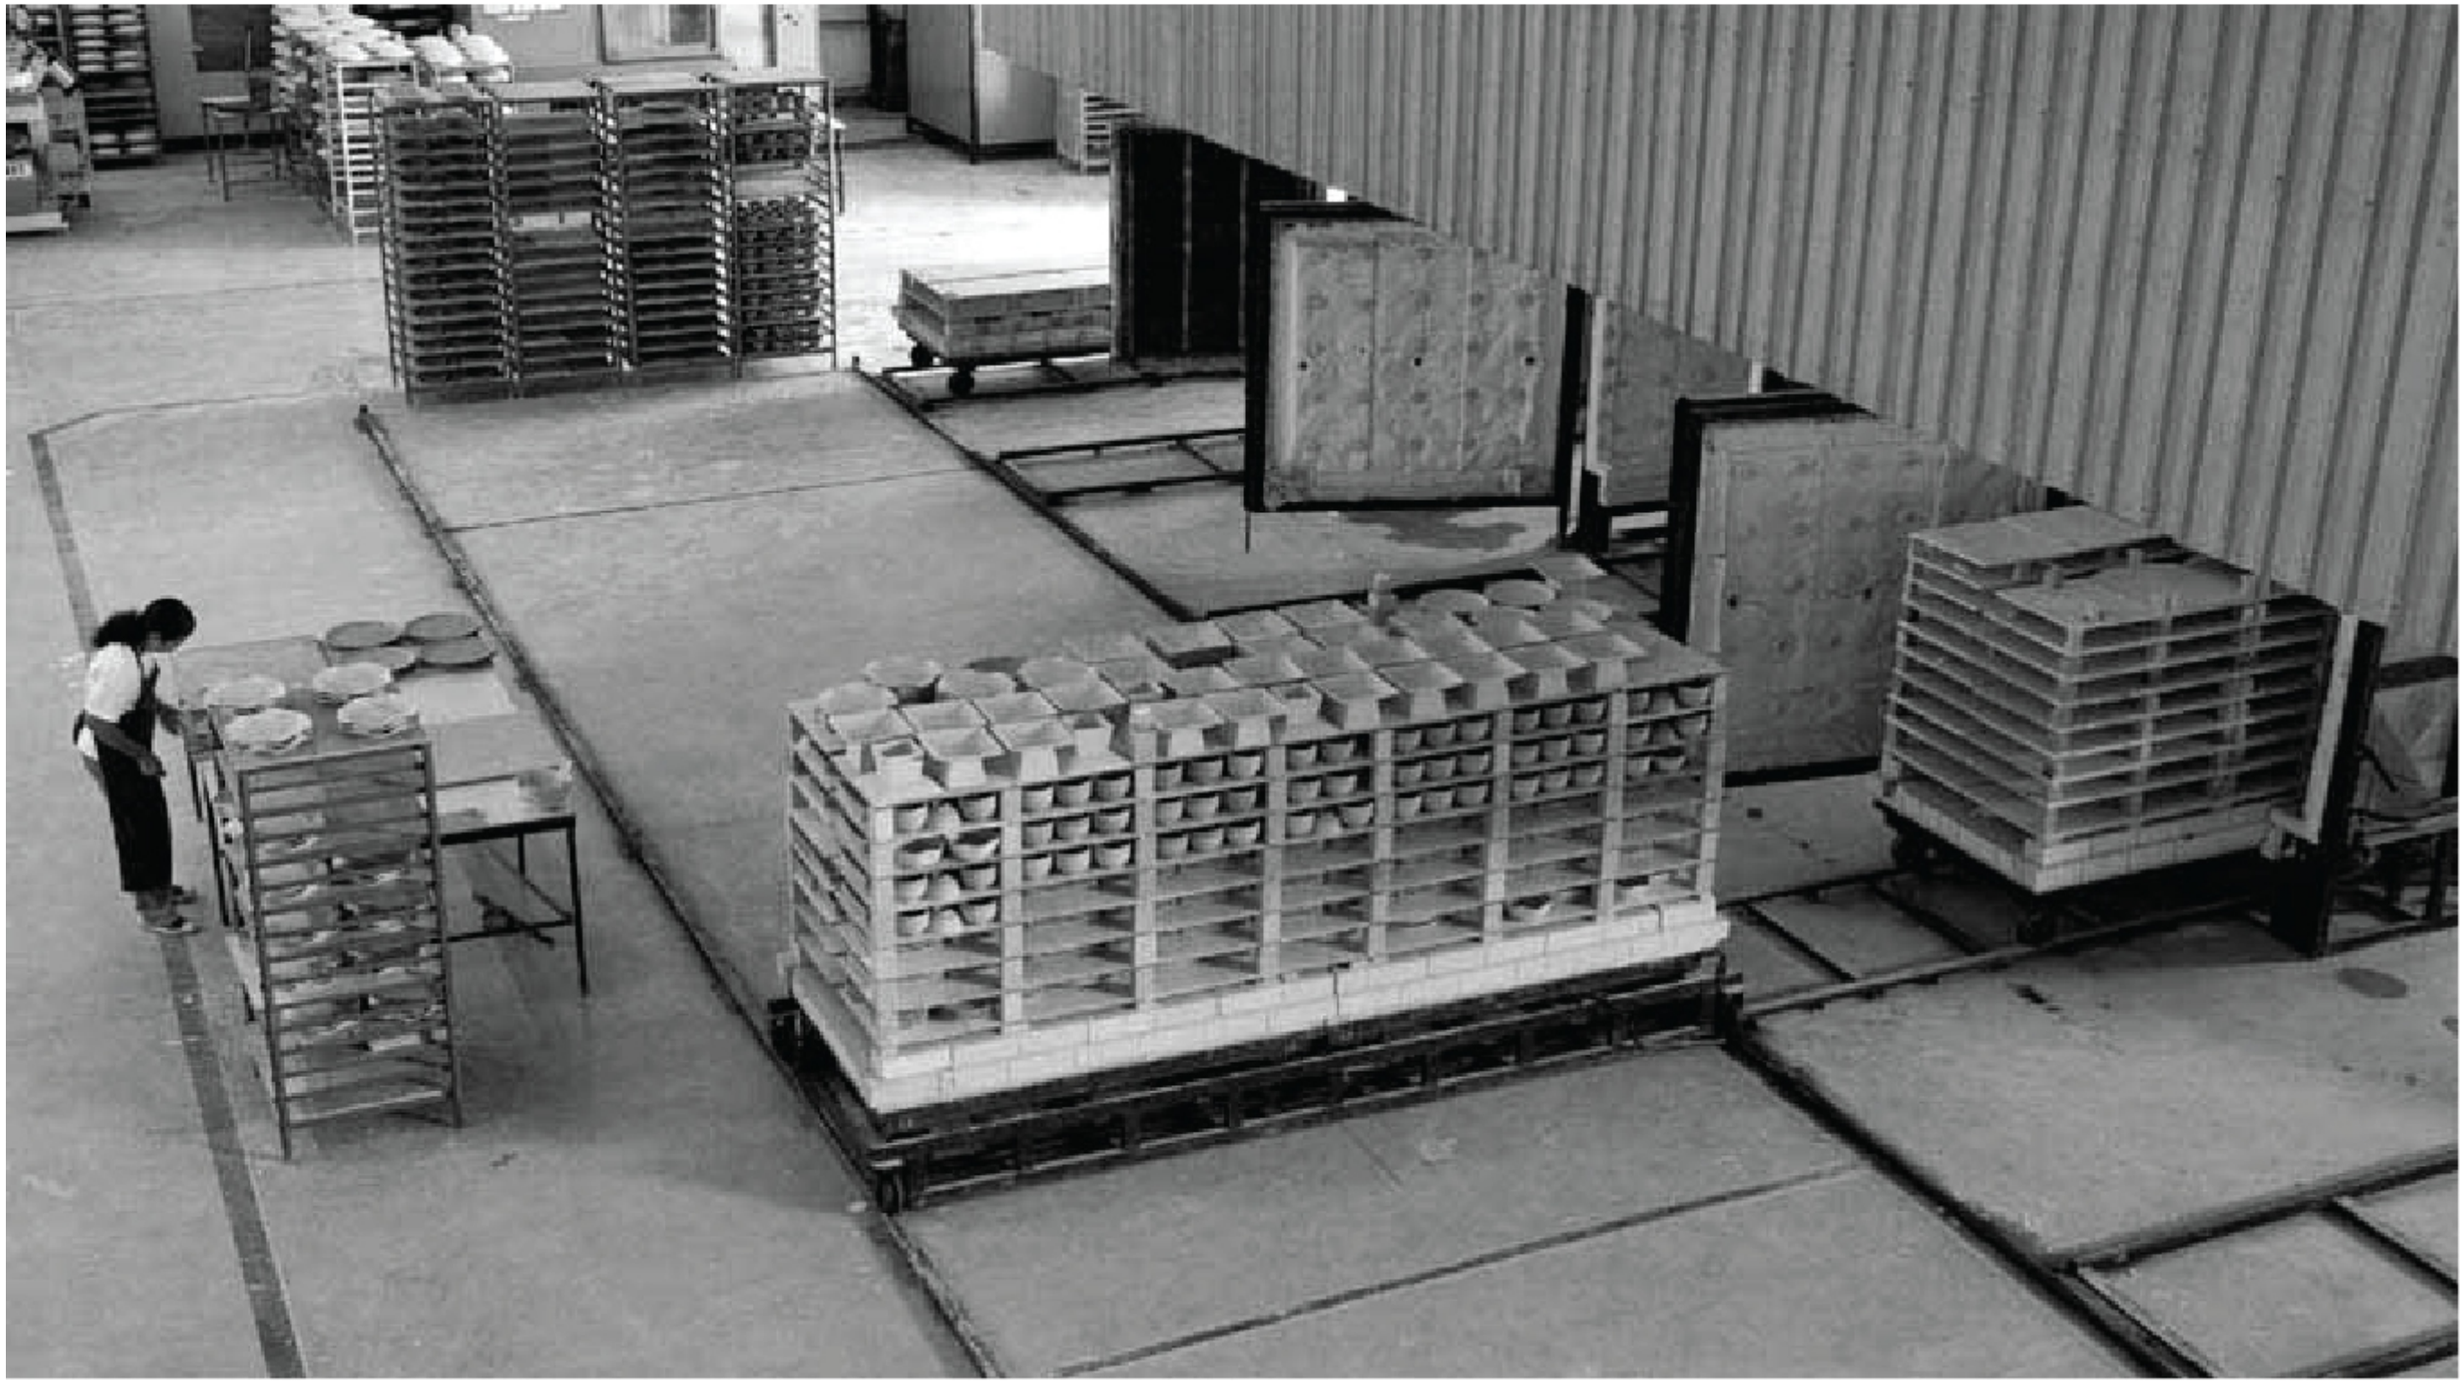
PRODUCTION

We have a production capacity of up to 45,000 pieces a month. Over the last 30 years, we have perfected all our own clay bodies and food safe glazes. Our in-house lab technicians continually run tests to maintain the high quality of the material. Our stoneware products are high fired to a peak temperature of 1250 degrees Celsius over an 8-hour cycle, verifying the body to less than 1% water absorption and fusing glaze to the ware.



PRODUCTS

At Jenggala, we work closely with both local and international designers to develop our product range. We currently have over 2,700 designs and 200 different glaze finishes to offer.
